- a. In our next message to CAMUSO/3, we will request that he cache a portion of his Zletys in the Daugavpils area and report the location of the cache. A great deal of urgency will be indicated, with the plausible explanation that someone is to make a trial exfiltration run (through Poland and Eastern Germany) in preparation for CAMUSO/3's own exfiltration.
- b. Approximately three weeks after we learn the location of the cache, he will be informed that he may now remove the funds because the agent had been unable to proceed to Daugavpils and, fortunately, had been able to obtain support from other contacts.
- c. No less than three weeks after that, CAMUSO/3 will be informed that the agent for whom he had made the cache was successful in exfiltrating into West Berlin and had been resupplied with very substantial funds, documents, and other materials for CAMUSO/3's exfiltration. CAMUSO/3 will be told not to expect the agent for at least three weeks because the agent will need to make a stop in Poland and one in Lithuania. The agent will allegedly contact CAMUSO/3 through the dead letter drop facility the latter had offered us in a previous message.
- d. About a month later, CAMUSO/3 will be informed in a rather excited and urgent fashion that he is not to use the dead letter drop contact facility ever again and that he is not to approach the site at which he cached and later retrieved the Polish Zletys. The reason for this security precaution as well as for the unfortunate breakdown of our plans to exfiltrate him, it will be explained, was the arrest of the agent who was carrying support to him, including the previously mentioned large amount of money. It will further be explained that we learned of this arrest in the following manner: the agent, carrying assistance to CAMUSO/3, was to meet a contact in Poland. This contact was being surveilled by two cut-outs. When the agent approached his Polish contact, it was noted by the cut-outs that two MVD officers apprehended the Polish contact and confiscated, on the spot, all the support materials he was carrying.

4. We are fully aware that a controlled agent must be run just as though he were clean lest we indicate to the controlling elements that we know he is under control. Consequently, the utmost care will be exercised in the composition of our messages. It is believed that this can be accomplished effectively by appropriate innuendos and insinuations.
